MSU GROUND BREAKING — On hand to participate in groundbreaking ceremonies for Murray State University's new $8.2 million University Center by turning some of the first shovels of dirt in the two-year-long construction project were, from the left Calloway County Judge-executive Robert O. Miller, Russell McClure, secretary of the Executive Department of Finance and Administration; Patrice Carroll, daughter of Gov. and Mrs. Julian M. Carroll and a senior at Murray State; Clark Beauchamp, commissioner of facilities management; and Richard Lewis, Benton attorney and immediate past president of the Murray State Alumni Association.

Dream Comes True At University With Groundbreaking On Center

By DWAIN MCINTOSH

Dirt was turned at Murray State University Monday for the $8.2 million University Center that one state official said "will truly be the heartbeat of the university."

Russell McClure, secretary of the Executive Department of Finance and Administration in Frankfort, told the crowd gathered under threatening skies on the site at 15th and Payne that the structure is as necessary as any that can be built on a campus.

"It will be a center for all happenings on the campus — whether significant or insignificant," he said.

He told the gathering that his role in the project was paradoxical because he knew how badly the building is needed yet also knew the limitation of the financial resources.

McClure lauded the aggressive and persistent leadership of Dr. Constantine W. Curris, university president, in seeing the project over some "rough road" leading up to the actual beginning of construction.

Curris, who presided during the groundbreaking, called it "a very historic day" and "the beginning of a dream come true." He gave credit to Gov. Julian M. Carroll as the one person more responsible than any other that the obstacles had been overcome.

Representing Carroll on the program was his daughter Patrice, a senior. She told of his abiding interest in the University Center and of his belief that the campus life of a student is an integral part of the entire educational process.

Others who spoke during the brief program were: Steve Bourne of Murray, president of the Student Government Association; and Clark Beauchamp, commissioner of the Bureau of Facilities Management. Dr. S. M. Matarazzo, faculty representative to the board of regents, offered the invocation.

Curris invited several people to shovel dirt signifying the beginning of construction — regents and former regents, state officials, alumni representatives, representatives of the architect and the contractor, and people involved in the planning process.

Then he gave "anyone who wants to get in on the action" an opportunity to turn a shovel of dirt. Several students came forward to participate in the ceremony.

At a luncheon following the groundbreaking, Richard Lewis of Benton, former chief executive officer to the governor and immediate past president of the Alumni Association, and State Sen. Pat McClintock of Pembroke, current president of the Alumni Association, made remarks.

The University Center will be located on the parking area site west of the Cutchin Recreational Complex. The 135,000-square-foot, three-level structure will include the following:

— Main floor — post office, bookstore, information booth, and dining areas.

— Lower level — game room, coffee house, arts and crafts room, Student Government Association offices, television and music listening lounges, and both men's and women's locker areas.

— Upper level — a 288-seat theater, ballroom, guest room, dining areas, meeting rooms, lecture room, and administrative offices.

Construction begins immediately and is scheduled to take two years.

TVA Director Freeman Urges Fresh Look For Southeast Power Utility

By LOWELL ATCHLEY
Staff Reporter

Tennessee Valley Authority's newest director Dr. S. David Freeman has called for renewed direction for the "middle aged" power utility and measured growth for Tennessee Valley it serves.

Freeman told a large gathering attending the annual Kentucky's Western Waterlands (KWW) meeting here Monday that the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) is at a crossroads. He urged a "fresh look" for the power utility that serves seven states in the Southeast. KWW met at the West Kentucky Livestock and Exposition Center.

Freeman, 52, told the Kentucky's Western Waterlands gathering, "TVA has always been the leader. We led the nation in hydropower, we led the nation in building the larger power plants to utilize coal. We led the nation into using nuclear power. Now is the time for TVA to go for the sun."

TVA and the people of the Valley are ideally equipped to provide the technical knowhow and the capability to enable the people to unload their utility power systems. People want to become more self reliant in their energy resources," Freeman said.

Kentucky's Western Waterlands is a tourist promotion group with membership in eight Purchase counties.

The group gave a special award, following Freeman's speech, to Murray Sid Jobs for organizing Septemberfest, a square dance gathering each fall at Kentucky Dam Village.

Speaking directly to the KWW members, Dr. Freeman said, "It's obvious this audience knows that tourism is a major industry and I predict this region will enjoy phenomenal growth in the future. But I hope it will be a growth that will not generate more ugliness." He said the very existence of a tourist industry rests on preserving the environment.

Freeman called for an end to the "Depression psychology in the Valley," with the accompanying unlimited growth.

"We're moving into an era where resources are going to more scarce rather than abundant. We're moving into an era where the Valley is going to have to accommodate growth rather than going out and begging and grasping for every industry that will locate in this part of the country," Freeman told the KWW gathering.

"If we sit back and let the pattern of growth continue as it has in the last 25 years without doing anything about it, we will see this Valley paved over. We will see the neon signs, the hamburger stands back to back from the Smokies to Memphis and from the Land Between the Lakes to Alabama," Freeman said.

Freeman said TVA "is very capable of leading the nation out of this energy mess." He called for TVA leadership in experimenting with solar energy.

Freeman told reporters prior to the banquet meeting Monday night that TVA should invest money into solar energy, conservation and decentralized power plants. He predicted TVA loans in the future for persons building solar energy homes, similar to current TVA insulation loans for qualifying homes.

"Our staff needs to take a hard look at solar energy demonstration homes. That's where TVA will put its money, I hope," Freeman told reporters.

"We need to take our wood resources and convert it into energy. We need to take all this trash and convert it into energy," Freeman said.

The TVA director told KWW members that TVA can be a demonstration for electric cars.

Freeman pledged to continue the non-commercial aspect of Land Between the Lakes. "The LBL is one of TVA's showpieces and as far as I'm concerned it'll have an important role in our future," Freeman said.

Freeman also had some critical words for the public utility he serves. "In a bizarre way, TVA has become a stranger in the Valley. TVA has not a single advisory committee. We can do a whole lot better in finding out the feelings of the people in the Valley," Freeman said.

Freeman said he said TVA's future energy programs "will mean nothing" without the active participation of the people in the Tennessee Valley.

Freeman, a graduate of Georgia Tech was the University of Tennessee Law School, is a likely successor to Aubrey Wagner, the current TVA

Rescue Squad Plans Auction To Raise Funds

Calloway County Fire and Rescue Squad will hold an auction sale April 28 at 6:30 p. m. at the squad house on South 4th Street. Proceeds from the sale will be used to help purchase a new fire truck for the Rescue Squad which has an expected delivery date in late November of this year.

The new truck will be dedicated to the memory of the late Preston Jones of Murray. Mr. Jones and his wife Roxie were named honorary members of the rescue squad in June of last year.

"Mr. and Mrs. Jones have given endless support to the squad over the past several years and were presented with a plaque in appreciation of their interest in the furtherance of the rescue squad's cause," a spokesman said.

The rescue squad will be accepting donations of new and used merchandise to be auctioned through April 26.

Anyone wishing further information or who have items to be donated may call fire control at 753-4112. The squad will also be accepting cash contributions, which are also tax deductible.

Items to be donated may be dropped off at the office of Mercy Ambulance on the corner of 4th and Chestnut Street in Murray or arrangements will be made to pick up items by squad members by calling the fire control number.

Planners Seek Input From Citizens On Federal Grant

Murray Planning Commission will be seeking citizen input when the commission conducts another in a series of public hearings April 17 in connection with a small cities grant program application for the city.

The commission met Monday night and introduced a citizen participation plan.

The next step under that plan, according to Murray City Planner Steve Zea, will be the appointment of a citizen advisory committee.

Murray is expected to apply for a community development block grant under Title I of the 1977 Community Development Act, administered by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The citizens advisory committee, recommended for appointment by Murray Mayor Melvin Henley, is expected to advise the community development agency in all program planning and implementation. Members of the committee will be responsible for attending neighborhood and town meetings where discussion of community development activities or program processes are being held.

Under HUD regulations in connection with applying for community development funds, the community development agency director and citizens advisory committee are expected to schedule town meetings, training sessions and neighborhood meetings.

The meeting April 17 is slated to deal with the total amount of money available to the city under the program, the range of activities which may be undertaken with the money, activities ineligible under the act, and the process in drawing up and approving the local application.

The meeting will be at Douglass Community Center on L. P. Miller St. (Second St.).

'Thank God For America' Local Farmers Told At Banquet Here

"Thank God For America" were the closing words of Oddvar Berg, minister, lecturer, after dinner speaker, and advocate of patriotism, as he spoke to the over two hundred members, teachers, and guests of the Calloway County Adult and Young Farmer classes at the Seven Seas Restaurant on Monday evening.

Berg, now a resident of Russellville, but a native of Oslo, Norway, chose to speak on the theme, "We The People," the first part of the preamble to the constitution of the United States. He listed many outstanding examples of the good life in America and described the "warm and wonderful feeling" he felt the day he became a citizen of the United States on May 7, 1968, along with 75 other new American citizens.

Some of the many things that are important to the people of America described by Berg were:

The vast expanses of land — farms, mountains, lakes, etc., and the opportunities afforded citizens through the land;

People — different from the rest of the world in that all of them are immigrants coming here since America was discovered;

Free people — said he realized this when he visits other countries of the world;

Nation under God — said he speaks seven foreign languages but that America is the only country in which one can call upon God as evidenced by the outpouring of prayer when a ball game was stopped in the middle to pray for the Apollo 13 mission team in trouble on their space flight in April 1970.

Berg said even with all the wonderful homes, best dressed, best fed, good cars, etc., "we Americans still go on complaining, not realizing how good and wonderful a life we have here in the United States of America. He urged the audience to "believe in the United ODDVAR BERG, left, advocate of patriotism, spoke on "We The People" at the dinner meeting, hosted by Ellis Popcorn Company and Hutson Chemical Company, held for the Calloway County Adult and Young Farmer classes of the Murray Vocational School at the Seven Seas Restaurant on Monday evening. On the right is Johnnie Stockdale, teacher for the classes, and in the center is Danny Cunningham, master of ceremonies for the banquet.

States, be proud of the United States, and be grateful for the United States."

The speaker spent 20 years in the Belgian Congo as a missionary, and came to the United States in 1947 as a missionary on furlough to continue his education. He returned to Africa in 1954 remaining until 1960 when it was necessary to leave the Congo due to the trouble when the country was given its independence. The Berg family fled to Brussels, Belgium where he worked as a professor at the Royal Athenee, until 1962 when they came to this country with the help of the resettlement services of the United Presbyterian Church U.S.A. He has pastored churches in Tennessee and Alabama and is now serving as an evangelist with the Western Kentucky Presbytery residing in Russellville.

Danny Cunningham, president of the Young Farmer class, was the master of ceremonies for the dinner hosted by the Ellis Popcorn Company and the Hutson Chemical Company. These two local businesses have sponsored this dinner each year since 1960.

James Lawson, coordinator of the Murray Vocational School of which the adult farmer classes are a part, introduced the speaker, Mr. Berg. Johnnie Stockdale, teacher of the classes, introduced special guests, Henry Armstrong, class vice-president, gave the invocation.

Dear Abby
 By Abigail Van Buren
 Rx for Doctors: Call Her 'Madam'

DEAR ABBY: An elderly woman signed HAD MY SAY resented being addressed by her first name by doctors and their nurses. (She said it was rude and demeaning.) You defended the practice saying it is not intended as an insult or a put-down, but is considered "friendlier" than the more formal "Miss, Mrs. or Mr."

I disagree. I was brought up differently, and I cannot get used to hearing a secretary, receptionist or salesperson call me anything but "Madam" or "Mrs." If they know my surname. Being called "Honey" or "Dearie" by salespeople is also irritating. Familiarity breeds contempt, and I shan't go back to a place where first-name basis is the policy.

Thank you for lending me your ear. This problem has bothered me ever since I came to America. And my children have never been allowed to call my friends by their first names either!

FROM ENGLAND

DEAR FROM: Although Long Beach is a long reach from England, read on for a reader who shares your view:

DEAR ABBY: I take strong issue with your comments on the letter from HAD MY SAY, who was ranked by the medical profession's practice of using the first names of their patients.

"Friendlier," as you call it, seems to be a two-way street. Never have I had a doctor or nurse suggest that I reciprocate; indeed, I believe they would not invite such friendliness except from those whom they know socially.

MRS. M. IN LONG BEACH

DEAR MRS. M. AND FROM ENGLAND: My mail has been running 5 to 1 in favor of first names. Residents in nursing homes say it makes them feel more at home.

So I suggest that those of you out there who resent being addressed by your first names, speak up. The squeaking wheel gets the grease.

DEAR ABBY: To HAD MY SAY, who resents being called by her first name, I say, "Right on!" And it's not a question of age. It's undue familiarity, demeaning and disrespectful.

I know a woman who handled it this way: During her first visit to a doctor she had never seen before, he asked, "Mary, does this hurt?"

She replied, "Yes, Jack."

After that he called her "Mrs. Smith."

OLYMPIA, WASH.

DEAR ABBY: Now that HAD MY SAY has had her say about people who call her by her first name, we'd like to have OUR say on the subject.

We are all residents of the Fountain Convalescent Hospital in Orange, Calif., and we think surnames are too formal. We prefer to be called by our first names. Thank you.

 By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

At this time of the year I am reminded of a verse in Song of Solomon that reads: "For Lo the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; The flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of the birds is come, and the voice of the turtle-dove is heard in our land." For it is just that way, every living creature seems to know that springtime is at hand and is doing its best to push winter back in its proper place. It is odd how that feeling is in the very air about us.

I have already planted a few things and am getting ready to prepare a bed along a new fence in the back yard. I can hardly wait to get at it. It seems a long time since we could get out in the yard and dig. I hope all of you will soon be setting out something—anything that is different—so that your yard will truly be your own. A new shrub, maybe of some of the improved annuals. Shrubs can be set out now and annuals will come later. But it is time to get to work.

Did you know that your airplane plant would do better if you used water that has stood overnight? It seems the fluoride in the city water is not good for that particular plant. And the airplane plant takes more water than most indoor plants.

Football Coach Gottfried Speaks For Woman's Club

By JO BURKEEN
Local Scene Editor

Members of the Murray Woman's Club heard Mike

Gottfried, new football coach at Murray State University, speak at the general brunch meeting held Saturday, April 1, at the club house.

Coach Gottfried spoke concerning the recruiting, progress, and work of the football program here at Murray State. He said he desired to recruit good character people and that to succeed the team members must be very, very tough. He said they "desired to work so hard in that program so that the coaches and players will not give up." Gottfried said character is what you do when no one is looking, and that "winning is most important and each must give one hundred percent."

The coach listed four things that he attempted to instill in his players and coaches which are: Respect for each other and mutual admiration; work hard to lay the groundwork; love for each other as they work together for respect and to be able to express one's self; good sound religious belief with the players and coaches to have a church service before each game.

Coach Gottfried announced the spring football game for May 4 when he will have two honorary coaching units. He said bands and entertainment will be featured with the cost being $1.50 per person. The coach said he was interested in getting people to the stadium to see the football team at play prior to the fall season.

Laura Jennings, member of the Home Department of the club, presented a most inspiring and impressive devotion using a bulletin board to illustrate scripture verses on the theme, "Lest We Forget." Mrs. Jennings is a retired elementary school teacher and is active in the Memorial Baptist Church as well as other civic and social groups.

The first vice-president, Bonnie Jones, introduced Coach Gottfried and made announcements concerning the meeting of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs to be held at Owensboro April 17 to 20, and the next general meeting of the Murray Club on May 9.

Maudena Butterworth who was the winner of the district sewing contest and will represent the club at the state meeting modeled her three piece suit she had entered. She was introduced by Cecilia Brock, second vice-president.

Peggy Billington, president, presided with June Crider leading the pledge of allegiance to the flag; Brenda Marquardt reading the minutes; Helen Kline giving the financial report; and Frances Butterworth leading the group in repeating the Club Collect.

Special reports were given by each department chairman listing the projects, donations, programs, etc., for the year. They were by Dr. Mildred Hatcher, Alpha; Ann Brooks, Creative Arts; Inez Claxton, Delta; Effie Vaughn; Garden; Betty Boston, Home; Jane Hopson, Kappa; Rebecca Dublin, Music; Julie West, Sigma; Wilma Beatty, Theta; Mary Ryan, Zeta.

At the close of the meeting new officers for 1978-79 were elected to be installed at the May 9th dinner meeting. They are Bonnie Jones, president; Cecilia Brock, first vice-president; Onelda Boyd, second vice-president; Ruth Wilson, recording secretary; Dorothy McKenzie, corresponding secretary; Helen Kline, treasurer.

Incidence of Birth Defects

Q: Mrs. S. R. writes that she was married earlier in the year and would like to start a family soon, but she has a growing concern about the possibility of her child having a birth defect. She wants to know what is the general average of birth defects. She also wants to know if exercise while she is pregnant will increase the chances of deforming a fetus.

A: The chance that any couple has of their newborn having a birth defect is three to four percent. In other words, in 100 births, between three and four babies will show some kind of birth defects. Some are minor and others are severe.

Older mothers are inclined to have a slightly higher percentage of births with congenital defects than younger mothers.

Incidentally, it is well recognized that the fetus is much more sensitive to damage and can have a greater chance of a birth defect from chemicals (medicine, alcohol, etc.) and illness of the mother (German measles, etc.) during the first three months of pregnancy than later. Therefore, care should be taken to avoid chemicals and exposure to diseases.

Regular exercise (walking, tennis, swimming, etc.) contributes to the mother's health and well-being and has not been found to have any adverse effects in producing any congenital defects.

Acne Not Contagious Q: Ms. C. N. says that she has noticed acne present in several members of the same family and often among close friends. She wants to know if it is a contagious infection.

A: Acne is not a contagious disease. It results from stoppage of the oil glands of the skin because of the effects of hormones which appear in greater concentration at puberty and cause skin changes. The impacted grease in the glands sets up irritation and permits some infection and inflammation from the germs, which are normally present on the skin of all persons.

A Timely Plan

A nationally known certified public accountant has come up with an income tax plan that he believes could relieve a lot of headaches.

The plan is simply to have groups of taxpayers file income tax returns on dates other than April 15. If one-fourth of the taxpayers filed, say, on March 15, another group on June 15, another on Sept. 15 and another on Dec. 15, the terrible rush of 88 million individual income tax returns all being due on April 15 could be avoided.

The author of this idea is Robert Halt, a CPA who heads his own financial and accounting company with offices in 55 cities.

Half claims the staggered filing plan would relieve overworked accountants and IRS personnel. And taxpayers would receive much more prompt service.

He points to the practices of corporations, who stagger their taxes by using fiscal year endings instead of Dec. 31, and of large companies and stores who stagger their billing dates. Many states, also, have successfully used staggered automobile license plate systems.

A lot of study would no doubt be needed to convert the IRS system. There would be bugs. Congress, for example, has the habit of passing amended and revised tax bills almost any time of the year. Would the guy who files his tax return in March be using a different set of forms and different tax laws than the one who filed in December?

Maybe these problems could be worked out. Certainly the staggered plan ought to be given careful study. No one we know is favorably impressed with the incredible logjam that occurs every April 15 under the present system.

Letters To The Editor

Supports More Planning

Dear Editor:

The Williams-Taparauskas exchange in a recent Local Issues Forum over the proposed four-lane zoning of 12th Street almost exposed the underlying issue: Murray's growth and the need for planning. Unfortunately, planning is often regarded with suspicion and fear because we are afraid it will restrict our freedom and generally produce unpleasant results.

First, to make my own position on the current issue plain, I believe that U. S. 61 (12th Street) between Utterback Road on the north and Sycamore on the south should be "four-laned" and properties along it rezoned for limited commercial development.

The real conflict here is not between commercial interests on the one hand and residential property owners on the other, but between unrestricted individual interest and genuine planning on behalf of the individual interests of all concerned.

Real planning is based — or should be based — on the premise that the general good of all can be served only if each sacrifices some measure of individual whim. Without such sacrifices, civil decency and order are intact impossible.

U. S. 61 has long been destined for "upgrading." Commercial interests, especially financial institutions, have banked on this by staking out key, "high-visibility" locations along 61. Opening the "bottle neck" will confirm a natural development, part of the larger plan for highway development in Murray. In this case, at least, what is good for business is not bad for most of the rest of us in the long range.

This stretch of 61 has long begged for widening to accommodate auto and truck traffic. Recent and planned commercial development on N. 12th Street will further clog an already inadequate traffic artery. This section of 61 should be brought into conformity with adjacent four-lane sections to the north and south for the sake of better traffic flow. That would benefit all of us.

However, planning must go beyond "four-laning" 61 and changing the zoning of some properties along it, as 12th Street south of Sycamore suggests fairly convincingly. The rezoned and widened section of 61 should be a model for the rest, with a roadway of adequate width, suitably frequent and staged control signals, left- and U-turning opportunities, and a median too high to permit promiscuous crossing at other points.

Then, for safety's sake, control signals should be installed at Glendale Road and Story Avenue south of Sycamore and at Arcadia Circle and 121 By-pass north of Chestnut. For the sake of traffic flow, all lights north of Main should be set to regulate southbound traffic at the speed limit, and all lights south of Main should be set to regulate northbound traffic similarly.

12th Street south of Sycamore provides another lesson: it is a visual eyesore. Commercial signs (both lighted and unlighted) along this roadway should be limited in size and subjected to standards that improve their graphic quality.

Fortunately, the most recent signs along North 12th are an improvement over those south of Main; the visual quality of building exteriors north of Main also seems to be improving. The limitation of lighted signs is a prudent response to our foreseeable energy shortages.

While strict traffic control might seem to threaten business, the opposite is actually the case. Well-conceived traffic control devices make stops more inviting and less hectic — and this benefits business. As inter-city traffic along 61 increases, an attractive array of businesses will more than compensate for the neon madness that might prevail without strict controls.

Plainly, properly comprehensive improvement of 12th Street will require the deliberate cooperation of the Murray Planning Commission; the U. S. Bureau of Highways; the Murray City Council; and many concerned individual citizens.

Planning may be manipulated to serve individual interests of many kinds. Americans fear their absolute rights to dispose of their own property will be seized by government agencies and planners. Hence, planning has been restricted to give individual interests free play in ways that, in the end, do a disservice to the interests of all.

A little planning can be a dangerous thing. Of that South 12th Street is vivid evidence. What is needed, however, is not less planning, but more.

Favors 'Dry'

Dear Editor:

Many of us are often too critical of our community and fail to appreciate the advantages of life in Murray.

As a parent of young children, I'm glad that our city and county are "dry." I especially appreciate the fact that our citizens have shown how seriously they believe in the evils of alcohol by establishing a number of Private Clubs That Don't Serve Liquor.

Even though I feel I cannot afford to belong to any of these Private Clubs That Don't Serve Liquor, I am glad they exist. Consumption of liquor, in any amount, by any person, is sinful and it is good that we have laws to prevent it.

The several Private Clubs That Don't Serve Liquor reinforce our community virtue and prevent us from being hypocritical — as long as our leading citizens who belong to Private Clubs That Don't Serve Liquor stand firm, the rest of us will be protected against the evil consequences of a liquor store in Murray.

Since these citizens do us this service, I am particularly upset that some of the "wets" have tried to drag the name of our city through the mud by deliberately throwing alcoholic beverage containers for 100 feet along the highway near the entrance to one of our Private Clubs That Don't Serve Liquor.

This is obviously an attempt to trick the rest of us into thinking that this club does serve liquor. I hope the police catch and prosecute these malicious liars!

For, as Paul says in Galatians 3:21: "Tell me, you who desire to be under law, do you not hear the law?"

Sincerely,

Some Dates A Fellow Never Forgets; This Is One Of Them

There are some dates that a fellow never forgets: His birthday, his wife's birthday, his wedding anniversary and, possibly, his children's birthdays. For ex-servicemen, there's still another: The day they left for the military.

It was 37 years ago today that I left home for the Army. Not because I wanted to, mind you. I was drafted. The day never passes that I don't look back on that dreary, rainy day at the Mayfield train station.

Ours was the first group of "draft-tees" actually "called" into service. Although the numbers had been drawn from the bowl in Washington five months earlier, Graves County had managed to fill its quotas with volunteers until that April of 1941. With no more volunteers, the two draft boards in town began beckoning to us.

America wasn't at war then, but the skies were dark. "Surely," they won't take me," I thought. I only weighed 112 pounds and couldn't fight my way out of a paper bag. We left on a Thursday for the induction center in Louisville, and as I left my desk at The Mayfield Messenger, I told my boss, Fatty Yates, with all confidence that I would be back to work the following Monday. That Monday was 58 months coming.

My number had been the 8th drawn from the bowl in Washington back in October, but the first seven were higher than any we had registered in Graves County. So, officially, I became Board 52's first honest-to-goodness draftee. I'm lucky that way.

From the time of the drawing, the late Doyle Hutchinson, who was chairman of Board 52, urged me to enlist so I could go with the Mayfield National Guard unit — Company L, 138th Infantry Regiment of the 38th Cyclone Division. "No, sir-ree," I would respond. "I'm not going until I have to." And I didn't, but it wasn't long coming.

Since we were the first real actual draftees to leave, they gave us a big sendoff on the 10:20 train to Louisville. The band was there. The mayor shook all our hands, and mommas' tears mingled with the rain.

There were 55 of us, and we spent that night on cots in the main ballroom of the Seelbach Hotel in Louisville. The next day — still a miserable, rainy one — we spent in slow moving lines in the basement of the Post Office wearing only our shoes and some official papers as we took our physical examinations.

James Lebre was in our group. Many of you remember James. He was a 210-pound brute of a man who had been an all-state football at Mayfield High School almost from the time he could walk. And you know! They rejected him because an ear injury he had received playing football, and took me!

When he came down the line late in the afternoon dancing on those powerful bowed legs of his and gleefully waving a train ticket home in the air, I thought, "Ye, gads! What kind of an Army are they putting together!" They never hesitated about taking me!

They swore us in before letting us dress, probably as a precautionary measure. If we had dressed first, some might have taken off. Soon we were on another train, this time, for Fort Thomas, near Cincinnati. There we were given uniforms, a safety razor, some towels and a couple of blankets.

As unprepared for war as it was at that time, the Army didn't have a lot of things, one of which was a size 34 Short coat. Nor did they have an overcoat my size. So, I ended up with a World War I coat, of "blouse" as they were called. You've seen the type. Gary Cooper wore one in "Sergeant York." James Cagney wore one in "Yankee Doodle," and General Pershing wore one all the time.

I was the only man among the 145 in our group to get one like it and took plenty of kidding because of it. The overcoat I got was an old, wrinkled CCC camp coat. Both had been stored so long the wrinkles were permanent.

After five days at Fort Thomas, they started shipping us out — some to here and some to there. Then one morning only two of us were left among the sea of double-decked bunks in a huge squad room — me, and a boy from Dawson Springs, James McLemore. We were told we were going to Fort Knox. This was great with us, because most of the others had gone to infantry units to be trained for fighting.

Sure enough, James and I were assigned to a Quartermaster food breakdown company being formed at Fort Knox. I suppose I was selected because I had worked as a boy in the Piggly-Wiggly store back home. All James had ever done with food was to eat it.

Some 50 or so others from other parts of the post also had been assigned to the same Knox unit and back, we came down the track to brand new barracks there. They're now part of the post's stockade.

When I got off the train in that old, wrinkled, World War I blouse, an old, lanky, leatherly first sergeant barked us into line on the platform. Beside several trucks, their tailgates down, stood their smug, grinning drivers. Then the old sarge, a horse cavalry veteran, strode along the line as an equally wizened corporal checked off our names.

Stopping in front of and looking down at me, he snapped, "And where in the hell have you been, soldier? You're just about 25 years too late!"

The next morning was my day, though, as we stood our first inspection before the captain, a reserve officer and a former rural mail carrier, at Pikeville. When he came to me, frozen at attention beside my bunk, he asked in a kind voice where in the world I had gotten that blouse. "They gave it to me at Fort Thomas, sir," I replied.

Then whirling on the old sergeant, he snapped, "Sergeant Tinsley, I'll not have this man dressed like this! When this inspection is over, take him to the Post Quartermaster and get him a decent blouse!" "Yes, sir!" answered Sergeant Tinsley, and by suppertime I had as fine a blouse as any man in the company.

That's why I remember April 4 — every year.

The Editor's Notebook

By GENE McCUTCHEON
Murray Ledger & Times Editor

Tommy Brown, manager of Murray Theatres, has pulled it off again; this time even to his own surprise. We think he's set some kind of record for communities the size of Murray, but Guinness doesn't have a category that gives us the information.

What Tommy has done is this: For the fifth year in a row, the Best Picture award given at the Academy Awards ceremony has gone to a movie that is playing on one of the Murray Theatre screens.

The Best Picture Oscar this time, for 1977's movie of the year, went to Woody Allen's "Annie Hall," currently on the marquee at Cige 1.

The winners the previous four years that were all playing here on Oscar night were: Rocky, 1976; One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, 1975; Godfather II, 1974; and The Sting, 1973.

Tommy attributes part of his record to "luck" and part to the fact that many of the previous winners were released in December in the big cities and get to Murray about two to three months later.

Tommy's surprise this year was that he had picked "Star Wars" to receive the Best Picture award. He was glad he missed that guess, though, so the local record could remain intact.

O+O

One other thought on the Academy Awards while we're at it.

We think Venessa Redgrave's political propaganda pitch concerning the Middle East conflict was totally inappropriate for the awards ceremony. We don't deny her right to speak her mind but we do not think last night's Oscar gala was the right occasion.

The Academy Awards traditionally stands as one of the world's foremost star-gazing opportunities and it should remain as one night a year filled with the glamour of Hollywood with any serious considerations going to the awards alone.

Playwright Paddy Chayefsky

summed up our feelings when he said later in the show he was "sick and tired of people exploiting the occasion of the Academy Awards for the propagation of their own political propaganda. He suggested to Miss Redgrave, and we agree, that "a simple thank-you would have sufficed."

Bible Thought

"And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord." Mark 11:9.

Those who shouted "Hosanna" on Palm Sunday shouted "Crucify Him" on Good Friday! How fickle are your praises today!

Isn't It The Truth

Everybody in government is clothed; some in silks, cashmeres and high fashion, others in levis, tails-out shirts and patched windbreakers. Hardly any of them prefer to go about in the condition in which they were born-naked. And that's the trouble with government — too much camouflage.

KHC Announces 7 1/4% Loans For Certain Qualified Buyers

F. Lynn Luallen, executive director of Kentucky Housing Corporation, announced today that 7 1/4 per cent single-family mortgage financing will be available April 1 for applications. From its most recent bond sale, KHC has allocated $51 million to 36 financial institutions throughout Kentucky for the purpose of making FHA-VA loans for qualified low- and medium-income borrowers.

"This has been, by far, our most successful bond sale and our most successful request for funding. Generally, we receive requests for twice the amount we have available," Luallen said. "However, this time we had requests for four times the amount of money we had available."

"We are very pleased to announce we will have a much better geographic spread of the funds than ever before. More small cities, towns, and rural areas will be served from this bond issue and we hope, as future sales are made, we will have even more banks and savings and loans join us in providing financing to Kentucky's lower income people through the use of our programs."

"As I mentioned before, we have more loan originators than we have ever had. Five years ago we had seven lenders. Today, we have 36 who have requested funds and we have 12 more prequalified to use our money. Also, we have had inquiries from the three largest financial institutions in Lexington to join our programs."

"A 7 1/4 per cent loan in the mortgage market today means a saving of approximately $29 per month to the average homeowner," Luallen said. "This often means the difference between acquiring a safe, decent and sanitary house, or not. With land and material costs soaring, many people are being priced out of the housing market. We hope, through our program, many can find the home they desire and need. other interested parties about KHC programs. The goal is to have a loan originator in every county so that funds can be made at the least cost to the

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG

Q — We have a living room table with a marble top. Recently, while moving it to another room (during a rearrangement of the furniture, the top, which was not attached, dropped and split into two pieces. It is a kind of jagged split running every which way across the top. Is there any way we can glue this together without taking it to a marble shop? If so, can you advise what kind of glue to use? Might we spoil the top?

A — You can probably make the repair yourself at a minimum cost. There is little or no danger that you will do any more damage than already has been done, unless you drop one of the pieces again. The worst that can happen is that you might not be satisfied with the result, in which case you will have to take it to a professional. But if you are very careful, the chances are you can do a passable job. Make sure the broken edges are clean and dry. Use a two-part epoxy adhesive, the kind which must be mixed just before applying. Apply the mixture to both surfaces according to the directions on the containers. To be sure that none of the combined adhesive-hardener spills over to the top of the marble, work very carefully with a small spreader, such as a toothpick. Apply the mixture in thin layers and join the two parts immediately, holding them together with clamps, tapes, rubber bands or anything else that will suit the size and shape of the marble top. Quickly wipe off any mixture that may be squeezed out of the joint. The longer it stays there, the harder it will be to remove. A little denatured alcohol on a clean cloth should be kept handy for just this purpose. After a couple of days, examine the repair. If there is a glue line that is very visible, go to a marble shop and buy some polish for rubbing over the glue line. To get the right kind of polish, tell the dealer how you plan to use it.

Q — Can you settle a dispute about a picture of an A-frame house we saw in a magazine? I claim that it isn't an A-frame if the roof does not extend all the way down to the ground or close to it, so that the sloping sides of the roof actually are the walls of the house. My friend says that any house in which part of the roof looks like the letter A can be called an A-frame. Who is right?

A — In the original, true A-frame house, the steep slopes of the roof served as the sidewalls. Today, there are dozens of variations in which the slopes of the roof do not extend all the way down, a portion of the walls being conventionally vertical. As a result, any house with a glass expanse under the slopes of the A is called an A-frame. Who wins the argument? Call it a draw.

Q — I see a lot of conflicting comments about how much insulation should be placed in attic floors and floors above cold spaces. Can you give me some figures?

A — Insulation is rated by R numbers. The R stands for resistance to heat loss and heat gain. You have seen differences in recommended R numbers because the recommendations have changed several times in recent years and because there are different figures for different locales. If your attic floor is not insulated at all, R-36 or R-38 is recommended for cold climates. R numbers are additive, so that two pieces of R-19 insulation equal R-38, and so on. In floors above cold spaces, R-19 is recommended for houses in the northern half of the United States and for homes in the southern half that are heated by oil or electricity. Otherwise, use at least R-11.

(Where and how to insulate are detailed in Andy Lang's booklets, "Save Money by Insulating," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to: Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Individual correspondence cannot be undertaken.)

The 789-acre historic district of Charleston, S.C., has about 2,000 buildings from the 18th and 19th centuries, most of which are preserved and in use.

Brown Has Six Hits All Day But Splits Pair With 'Breds

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Slowly but surely, things are starting to fall in place for the Murray State baseball team. Now, if baseballs will just start falling in place.

The 'Breds had some outstanding pitching Monday and stung the ball all over Reagan Field. The only problem was Brown University stung the 'Breds with some fine outfield play and though having just six hits on the entire day, Brown managed to come away with a split.

In the opening game, Dave Bradford pitched a beautiful game but just didn't have any luck as he lost a 3-2 decision while in the nightcap, the 'Breds took out their frustrations with a 10-0 as Mike Grieshaber hurled a three-hitter.

With a break, Murray could have scored 10 runs in the first game. Though Brown's Don Wright looked good on paper as he went the route in scattering six hits, he was quite fortunate he wasn't knocked out of the box.

All day, the 'Breds pounded away and like jack-in-the-boxes, Brown's outfielders would spring up, fall back or dive forward for remarkable catches. In the seventh inning, Murray State could easily have had four extra base hits. Instead, the 'Breds only had one and couldn't score.

SHUTOUT — Mike Grieshaber, a sophomore southpaw from Festus, Mo., fired a shutout in the second game yesterday. Grieshaber allowed just three hits in the 10-0 win.

Bradford walked just two batters the entire contest. Unfortunately, they were in succession to open the top of the seventh where the 'Breds came into the frame with a 2-1 lead.

After the two walks, a sacrifice bunt moved the runners to second and third then a single by Mark Whipple produced the go-ahead runs for Brown.

But the 'Breds nearly pulled it out in their half of the seventh. Darny Teel opened with a single then catcher Ted Poe drilled a ball to the 360-foot sign in dead center and Brown's Barry Blum crashed into the fence and made the stab of what could have easily been a double.

Up came Mike Calicchio, playing shortstop for the injured Steve Sencibaugh, and he then drilled a shot to deep center for the second out. Finally, the 'Breds got their extra base hit. Al Luigs hit a screamer down the first base line and into the corner to put runners on second and third for Tony Threatt.

Threatt, hitting very well in the last few days, got hold of an outside pitch and sent a screaming liner deep into the rightfield alley. Brown rightfielder Mike Konieczny, with his back to the plate, made a diving stab at the base of the fence and somehow, held on to the ball to end the game.

STINGING THE BALL over the past few games has been Doran Perdue of the 'Breds. Perdue had three hits in Monday's twinbill split with Brown University.

In the second game, Grieshaber was in trouble just once and it wasn't his fault as three 'Bred errors in the second loaded the bases with one out but Grieshaber retired the next two batters.

Murray exploded in the third inning for seven runs and it took just one swing of the bat to get four of them. A single by Doran Perdue sandwiched between a pair of walks left the sacks full for third baseman Robin Courtney who hit one over the fence Saturday at Western Kentucky but was called out when the centerfielder went over too and supposedly made the catch.

Courtney hit one over the fence again. But this time, the ball was over the high fence in rightcenter by about 35 feet and the 'Breds had a 4-0 lead and it was stretched to 7-0 as Mike Johnson singled in one and Doran Perdue droyed in two with a single.

Murray added another run in the fifth as Johnson doubled, Luigs singled and Perdue grounded out for an RBI. Then in the sixth, the 'Breds had their second homerun of the game.

After Bill Wagoner reached on a fielder's choice, "Tater" Ted Poe blasted a four-bagger to rightcenter for a 10-0 lead.

"We rarely ever get a poor pitching performance any more," Murray coach Johnny Reagan said. "The two guys they threw at us today were two of their best pitchers and we sprayed the ball all over the place. Hitting is somewhat contagious. One guy hits a pitcher and pretty soon, everybody thinks they can hit him."

"I know Brown was pretty frustrated because they couldn't hit Grieshaber. He looked hittable to them," Reagan added. The problem now is the

'Breds are making too many errors but part of that may lie in the fact three starters are currently out with injuries and a couple of others are also sidelined.

Tom Fehn, the leading hitter on the team, twisted an ankle and didn't dress out Monday; Greg Tooley was hit by a pitch Friday and after playing Saturday, was unable to answer the bell Sunday and Monday; Steve Sencibaugh has a badly swollen right wrist, though he did bat once yesterday; Robin Courtney is playing with a pulled hamstring muscle and Greg Cruse was out with a virus yesterday.

"When you're playing every day, and you don't have the mornings to recuperate, you're going to have those type of injuries that will keep on nagging. Our kids have to be in class during the morning and can't spend as much time as they need in the training room," Reagan added.

There are some bright spots, besides the pitching. It seemed everyone was making good contact with the ball and in particular, rightfielder Doran Perdue was belting everything thrown near the plate.

Once, he nearly tore the third baseman's head off with a shot down toward the hot corner.

"Doran's been blistering everything. He has good wheels, a great arm and can beat you in so many ways," Reagan said.

The 'Breds are 16-10 on the season and will play a single game today with Brown, since both teams are rattled with injuries and since the Bruins are due to spend the night in Ohio.

After today's game, the 'Breds will have 19 games left on the schedule, 10 of those games being at home.

The 'Breds will play a crucial doubleheader at Clarksville Wednesday against Austin Peay and a sweep of the pair would leave MSU in good shape. A split wouldn't help and if the 'Breds were to lose both games, they would all but be eliminated from the league race.

Scott Durham and Clay Vangilder will hurl Wednesday with Doyle Miller and Cliff Buechel available for long relief. The 'Breds will be off Thursday and Friday but will host Austin Peay to a pair on Saturday with Mark Wezet and Andy Rice to draw the mound chores.

Hubie Green Has Head And His Game Together

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — He has won more tournaments than Hale Irwin or Ray Floyd, more than Tom Weiskopf or Al Geiberger, more than Miller Barber or Don January, Dave Hill or Frank Beard.

He's a $1-million winner. He is opinionated and occasionally outspoken. He has quietly displayed enormous personal courage.

He's a favorite of the galleries, one of golf's more popular players with the fans. But, for reasons unknown, Hubert Green rarely is grouped among the current greats of the game; rarely, that is, until he comes lashing down the stretch with that peculiar, quick swing of his, nailing an Irwin here, outscoring a Floyd there.

Even though he won the U.S. Open last season, he was all but overlooked in the drama of the continuing Tom Watson-Jack Nicklaus battles. But since last June he has won as often as either of those more glamorous names.

And he brings his ancient, age-unknown, green-gripped putter into this week's Masters with current 'credentials' as good as anyone's — two victories this season, a winner his last time out, collector of $117,499 in official earnings.

His confidence is at a high point off a victory in his last start, the prestigious Heritage Classic.

"I'm a better golfer now than ever before," he said. "That doesn't mean I'm going to play better this week than I ever have. It means that over a period of time I'm a better, smarter player than I have been."

And the tough-minded, tested Green is wholly unafraid. His courage and ability to perform under pressure were confirmed last year when he won the national championship despite playing the last few holes knowing a death threat had been made against him.

"It's not the kind of thing I want to talk about," he said. "It just gives other sick people ideas."

Green, now the winner of 14 titles, has secured his place in the game. But he wants to improve it — and that improvement, for a player of his caliber and ranking, comes only in the major events.

"Anyone out here (on the tour) wants to be a great player. It's a natural ambition. My definition of a great player is one who wins great tournaments where all the other great players are competing. A great player wins those, and wins more than once."

All factors indicate the darkhaired man with the deep-set eyes has a better-than-good opportunity to achieve a second major crown this week. His game is reaching a peak. His credentials are all in order. His confidence is high.

"You can never predict you're going to win a particular tournament," Green said. "You can never guess that until the last few holes."

"But whenever I play, I think I can win. And I'm trying to win. I never give up until I'm finished."

LEGGING IT.—Tim McAlister (16) of the Lakers finds a new way to reach base. He went down on strikes but the ball got past the Mayfield catcher and the Laker freshman managed to beat the throw to first where Mark Shelton awaits with his glove outstretched.

SAFE AT HOME.—Jesse Holder (10) of Mayfield goes in with his head down at the plate and scores as the ball goes sailing over the head of Laker catcher Scott Barrow.

Mayfield Rips Lakers, Riley Spins No-Hitter

Richard Riley opened the season in style for Mayfield Monday afternoon at the Murray-Calloway County Park as he twirled a no-hitter as the Cardinals won a 13-0 game over Calloway County.

The game was called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Riley fanned eight batters in the contest and walked only one man. His teammates backed him with an 11-hit offensive attack.

Danny Rogers started on the hill for the Lakers and worked two complete innings before being lifted with no out in the third. Nine runs were charged to Rogers.

Randy McCallon came on in relief and allowed three runs in two innings while Kenneth McCuiston hurled one frame, allowing one run.

Neither team scored in the first inning but in the top of the second, the Cardinals loaded the bases with nobody out as Jesse Holder singled, Phil Sutherland singled and Greg Puckett was hit by a pitch.

The first run came in when Jeff Jackson walked for an RBI to give the Cardinals a 1-0 lead. The first out was recorded when Sutherland was forced at the plate on a fielder's choice by Mark "Groucho" Shelton.

Shelton's fielder's choice left the bases loaded then Greg Hawkins singled for an RBI then after Riley aided his own cause with a sacrifice fly for an RBI, Kent Williams doubled in two runs to make it 5-0. The inning finally ended when Gary Hobbs went down on strikes.

Holder opened the Mayfield third with a single then two consecutive errors jammed the sacks. A fielder's choice grounder by Jackson scored a run, Shelton walked to force a run and Hawkins doubled in a pair. That made it 9-0 and Rogers exited and gave way to McCallon who retired the next three hitters.

Mayfield added four more runs in the top of the fifth inning to make it 13-0 and the Lakers would have needed four runs in the last of the fifth to keep the game going.

The Cardinals, who are 10 on the season, will make their second trip to Murray in a week when they visit the Murray High Tigers for a 4 p.m. game Friday at Holland Stadium. The game will be the season opener for Murray.

Calloway, which falls to 0-3 on the season, will host Trigg County Thursday and will visit Marshall County Friday.

Nuggets Win Title In Division, Whip Braves

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Denver Nuggets failed to strike paydirt during a pair of four-minute interludes, but the victory-starved Buffalo Braves couldn't take advantage as they went down 104-95 in a National Basketball Association contest.

Denver scoring droughts in the second and third period helped Buffalo build an 82-7 lead after three quarters. But the visitors ripped the Braves 27-13 in the final period Monday night to grab the victory and wrap up their second consecutive Midwest Division regular season title.

Of his team's inability to capitalize on Denver's lapses, Buffalo Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said, "I knew we were in trouble when they missed 13 straight shots in the second quarter and we only led by three."

When it counted, Fitzsimmons could not even rely on Randy Smith, who led all scorers with 39 points. Only four of those came in the second period. "I put Randy back in and he couldn't buy a bucket," the coach said.

Denver edged ahead 54-52 at intermission, and the clubs were at 66. The Nuggets stayed at the 66 total for four minutes while Buffalo scored 10 straight.

"We were cold and at 66 forever, but our defense kept us in the game. Our defense was the key to winning the game," said Dan Issel, Denver's high scorer with 27 points. The Braves, as is their habit, collapsed in the fourth quarter, scoring only 13 points and committing seven of their 19 turnovers. The game was tied at 91, but then Denver scored 7 straight points to put the game out of reach.

"We've had a lot of games like this one," said Denver Coach Larry Brown. "We're a young team and when we get behind we try to come back the first time up the floor."

For Buffalo, the loss was its ninth in the last nine outings.

Surgery Ahead?

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas center Steve Schall may have to undergo knee surgery, basketball trainer Dean Weber said Monday.

Schall injured his knee Jan. 23 in a game against Baylor. Although bothered by the injury, he started every game the remainder of the season.

Weber said a final decision on whether surgery is necessary will be made later this week, after basketball Coach Eddie Sutton, surgeon Dr. Tom Coker and Schall have discussed the matter.

Wise, Eckersley Both Pitch Well In Debuts

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Dennis Eckersley wasn't overjoyed with his first outing in a Boston uniform. The Red Sox, however, were thrilled... and the Cleveland Indians were more than happy with Rick Wise.

Eckersley and Wise were involved in last week's six-player trade between Boston and Cleveland and both right-handers made impressive pitching debuts with their new clubs Monday.

Eckersley, who was acquired to help Boston overtake the world champion New York Yankees in the American League East, had to settle for the New York Mets this time. He allowed three hits in five innings as the Red Sox rolled 6-0, while Wise held the Chicago Cubs scoreless for six innings and then needed relief in the seventh of the Indians' 4-3 exhibition victory.

Elsewhere:

Newlywed John Montefusco checked Los Angeles on two hits over the first six innings and 40-year-old Willie McCovey hit his first home run of the spring to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 2-0 victory over the Dodgers, who have lost six in a row.

Home runs by Rick Dempsey and Lee May powered the Baltimore Orioles over the New York Yankees 3-2.

Tim Corcoran's two-run single in the seventh inning gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds. The losers' George Foster blasted his eighth spring homer, the first surrendered in 32 innings by Detroit's Jim Slaton, who finished spring training with a 5-0 record.

Moose Haas became the first Milwaukee pitcher to go nine innings, scattering seven hits as the Brewers trounced the Minnesota Twins 9-2. Ben Oglivie had a homer and three RBIs for the winners.

The Houston Astros bombed Texas' Doc Medich for 14 hits and seven runs in six innings, including a home run by Cesar Cedeno, and defeated the Rangers 8-3.

Atlanta's Bob Beal, a nonroster first baseman, tagged St. Louis' Eric Rasmussen for a grand slam home run in the first inning and the Braves went on to beat the Cardinals 9-4.

Kansas City's Tom

Poquette raised his spring batting average to .447 with a triple, two singles and four RBIs while Al Cowens had four singles and a pair of RBIs as the Royals edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4.

Don Baylor belted a three-run homer and Lyman Bostock added a two-run shot to power the California Angels over the San Diego Padres 14-6. Frank Tanana blanked the Padres on two hits over the first four innings.

Wayne Garrett's sixth-inning home run off Philadelphia's Larry Christenson helped the Montreal Expos edge the Phillies 5-4 and winning pitcher Jerry Reuss delivered a run-with-a suicide squeeze bunt as the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Toronto Blue Jays 6-5.

Gary Alexander's solo home run helped the Oakland A's beat Arizona State University 7-4. Chris Bando, younger brother of Milwaukee's Sal Bando, hit a two-run homer for ASU.
